

PULLET SALE TO BE ONE FEATURE OF TOBACCO FAIR

Mason County Poultry Association Will Arrange Big Show for Annual Fall Festival This Year—Many Pure Bred Pullets To Be Sold

Officers and members of the Mason County Poultry Association are making arrangements for a great Poultry Show in connection with the Corn and Tobacco Fair to be held during the week of November 14th. They are expecting to have the biggest and best show that has ever been held in Mason county or for that matter, in any part of the state of Kentucky.

One of the big features of this show will be the sale of pure bred Rhode Island Red pullets returned to the association by the scores of farmers who received in the spring from the association's sale of eggs free with the understanding that for each setting they were to return one pure bred pullet. These pullets will be auctioned by the association to the highest and best bidder.

It is planned to have a great display of pure bred poultry of all breeds and particular stress will be laid on the Rhode Island Reds as these are the official breed of Mason county.

LOYALTY IS THE KEYNOTE OF THE G. A. R. MEETING

Commander-in-Chief Urges Veterans To Be Loyal to the Country They Once Saved and Now Love.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 28. — Every insidious attack against the principles of free government must be fought off, Commander-in-Chief William A. Ketchum, of the Grand Army of the Republic told his comrades Tuesday.

Addressing the veterans at the formal opening of the fifty-fifth annual encampment, the commander told them they should "set their faces like flint against all the evils of the modern day that are threatening — Bolshevism, I. W. Wism, anarchy, Ku Klux Klans — whatever their name may be—that tend to throw a light on the fair name of the land that we saved and still love."

Commander Ketchum's address marked the opening of the business session of the encampment. While the veterans were meeting, allied organizations also began their formal gatherings.

While the various organizations were meeting, the veterans also found time to attend brigade and regimental reunions. Headquarters of these organizations were established and comrades of days of long ago met to talk over experiences.

A veteran of the 156th Ohio Volunteer Infantry searched throughout the day for his comrades. "I think there are five of them left," he said.

Last night the commander-in-chief and his staff were the guests of Gov. Warren T. McCray at the State House. The event of the encampment — the annual parade — is set for today.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 28. — Gov. Edwin P. Morrow Tuesday issued his proclamation, designating Monday, October 10, as Fire Prevention Day.

"For the purpose of calling the attention of the people of Kentucky to the needless devastation caused by fire I therefore designate Monday, October 10, 1921, as Fire Prevention Day, and upon this day call upon the people of the commonwealth to inspect their homes, places of business, etc., for the purpose of making them less liable to destruction by fire; to remove all waste or inflammable materials from cellars, outhouses, etc.; to examine flues and chimneys, and in a word to direct their attention to the important questions of making their property less liable to destruction by fire."

PROMINENT BIBLE STUDENT TO SPEAK HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Dr. Edward Leigh Fell, Author of Many Religious Books and Editor "Fell's Sunday School Notes" Will Preach Here Sunday Night.

B., of Richmond, Va., will be the guest of the Baraca Class of the First Baptist church and will speak on the subject, "The Misinterpreted Master."

The Sunday evening service will open at 7:30 o'clock and Dr. Fell's address will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. This is done that members of other congregations might have the opportunity of hearing this speaker. Dr. Fell's book "Four Feet on a Fender," a quiet talk with women, is one of the widest circulated books on religious subjects and his book on "The Life Worth While" is also largely circulated among men.

The entire public is cordially invited to this service. There will be no special offering as the expense of the meeting is borne by the Baraca Class.

"CHE-KA," THE BLACK HORROR.

"Che-ka" is a name for the world to remember. It is the name by which the "Extraordinary Commission" is known in Russia. "Che-ka" knows no law, no human mercy, no God in heaven and no devil in the universe except itself. Neither Lenin, nor Trotsky nor any other body in Russia has power over "Che-ka." Its acts of murderous ferocity cannot be questioned by anybody.

Just now "Che-ka" is standing Russian farmers up in rows and shooting them down because they protest against the "requisitions"—that is, the seizure of the food they have raised—seized to feed the loafing communists in the cities who work not and therefore have nothing to give in return for the farmers' hard-earned crops.

The jails of Russia are crammed full of the victims of "Che-ka"—farmers, workmen, teachers, writers; tens of thousands of people suspected by the ignorant, fanatical illiterates who compose the Extraordinary Commission. All Europe is full of stories of torture and horror that come from the loathsome dungeons, stories that far out-ride the Siberia brutality of the despotic days of the Czars.

Some day the common people of Russia will gain control of their country. When that occurs, and they hunt down and hang the unmentionable devils that compose "Che-ka," you will hear a cry go up from the American Bolsheviks about "white" terror in Russia. Laugh!

RANDELL GETS OFF WRONG.

Senator Joseph E. Randell, of Louisiana, president of the National Merchant Marine Association, went off half-cocked recently in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce of Cincinnati. This chamber, by the way, is heading a movement on the part of business men's associations throughout the country to support and maintain the merchant marine. Senator Randell said: "When the merchant marine law was put upon the statute books in June, 1920, it was hailed as a great triumph for the new American merchant marine. But, as a matter of fact, when the new Shipping Board recently took office all the outstanding features of the law, so far as positive action is concerned, had been left a dead letter."

It was President Wilson who refused to execute the provisions of the Jones merchant marine law, and for this he was roundly criticized by President Harding in his prelection speech at Baltimore, and again in Omaha.

Senator Randell then complains because of the sale by the Shipping Board recently of wooden ships at $2,100 each, "which cost the taxpayers upward of $500,000 each to build." But he should recall that when his own party was in power an offer of $30,000,000 for these wooden ships was spurned.

To the credit of the senior Senator from Louisiana, however, he it said that he is a staunch supporter of the American merchant marine whenever that subject is before Congress, and it is only during off days that he selects a belaying-pin from that subject to shy at the Republican party.

COAL OPERATORS UPHELD BY BIG MANUFACTURERS
National Association of Manufacturers
Issues Bulletin Upholding Coal
Operators of West Virginia.

New York. — In a bulletin issued by the National Association of Manufacturers it upholds the coal operators of West Virginia who refuse to deal with the United Mine Workers.

After presenting statistics to show that non-union miners in West Virginia receive higher wages than in the Kanawha union field in West Virginia the manufacturers' bulletin says of the activities of the United Mine Workers:

"The present effort is not for the raising of wages. It has another and more sinister purpose, the suppression of West Virginia coal output to enable operators of the middle west to retain western markets and thus insure the retention of closed shop control of their mines."

Operators of the middle western states and officials of the United Mine Workers are quoted to support the claim that "the United Mine Workers and guaranteed to the operators that competition from West Virginia mines able to produce and sell for less would be removed."

Past efforts of the United Mine Workers to establish the closed shop in the principal West Virginia fields have, however, proved prevailing it is declared. The middle western operators are said to have continually complained that the United Mine Workers was not removing West Virginia competition as it had agreed. "Faced with loss of trade or with bankruptcy the unionized operators have threatened abolition of the closed shop union agreements, unless the United Mine Workers can eliminate the competition from West Virginia."

The National Association of Manufacturers then declares that "the United Mine Workers now attempts to forcibly unionize the West Virginia mines in order to raise their cost of production and save its ebbing control in the mines of the Middle West."

The Manufacturers also charge "that 'The United Mine Workers does not observe contracts where made.' In support of this statement is quoted John R. Lawson, a union official, Governor Kirby of Alabama, and Woodrow Wilson.

It is further alleged that "violence and disregard of the law is condoned by the United Mine Workers." Several specific instances are mentioned in support of this allegation. "Eleven Washington. — One of Washington's interesting characters and citizens, Major Joshua Thomas Turner, U. S. Army, retired, has just celebrated his ninetieth birthday. He served as bodyguard for Lincoln on one occasion, has seen the Capital City grow from a village with muddy streets to what Major Turner calls the most beautiful city in the world. He thinks he is the only man living who participated in four wars, not including the Spanish-American or world war, as follows: The Mexican, 1846-48; the Rogue River, Oregon Indian war, 1853; confederated tribes of Oregon and Washington, Indian war, 1855-56; and the civil war, the latter from the first to the last of the fighting. He was awarded by Congress the title of colonel, but has always declined to accept the title on the ground he did not win it in battle.

CHILDREN ARE CONDEMNED TO PART TIME INSTRUCTION

Around 100,000 in New York Alone
Have Schooling Retarded; Conditions Bad Elsewhere.

Washington. — An object lesson from a public school standpoint is being furnished the country in connection with the opening of the schools in New York city, where nearly 100,000 pupils, or about one in eight of the enrollment are condemned to part time instruction, due to lack of room for their accommodation. This condition, which has been characterized as disgraceful by the press and by public officers, is being charged up to public indifference in the greatest city in the United States.

It is possible a like condition exists in other sections, although not to the extent it does in New York. The children of New York could not only have been provided with ample school room space, but many of the unemployed could have been given remunerative work, it is being pointed out, had those responsible for the condition which exists been interested and far-sighted enough to erect more buildings. With the opening of schools throughout the country attention has been centered on campaigns now on in different states looking to a more ample provision for the school children in both the rural and the urban localities.

In the "small" right over the hips? That's the home of backache. If it's caused by weak kidneys. Use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Maysville people testify to their worth. Read a case of it: Mrs. R. L. Mattingly, 207 West Second street, Maysville, says: "I was in a bad condition with my back and kidneys. I couldn't get my proper rest at night owing to the dull misery in my back. I was feeling so miserable I often had to let my housework go undone. I was dizzy by spells and also suffered from rheumatic pains. I have been so bad that I couldn't walk without pushing a chair in front of me and my lower limbs were very painful. My kidneys were in a bad condition owing to their irregular action. My mother had used Doan's Kidney Pills successfully and that led me to send to Wood & Son's Drug Store and get a couple boxes. After using them I was all right. I have felt well since using Doan's and recommend them gladly."

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York — If you want to hear politics talked in New York, try the ten rooms. The air is deuced with discussions of candidates and issues. Even if the old saloons were still open, they would be seriously rivalled. New York women have taken up politics now in the manner of men; that is not just as a subject for platform admonition and set meetings where votes are counted, but for chit-chat and daily concern. Drop into any of the tea rooms flourishing in the Murray Hill section of Manhattan, for instance. If ten women are there, six will be talking politics or it will be on abnormal day.

—NY—

We are selling our churches now to make room for automobiles. At one point in Madison avenue, the sidewalk has been cut back so deeply to allow for more vehicular traffic that a large portion of the front entrance of the Central Presbyterian church has been cut off, necessitating the removal of part of the steeple. The architect has done his best to retain the lower portions of it, but it was a desperate effort.

Crows, generally speaking, are looked upon as something to shoot at. But to the Hippodrome theater, a performing crowd is apparently well-nigh priceless. The management has just applied for insurance on its prize crowd to the amount of $50,000.

—NY—

Marcia O. Dunham, of New York City, the only woman appointed to the Russian Relief Commission, has had enough experience and experiences in that country during these past few years to justify her being singled out. She has been at the head of the Y. W. C. A. work in all the Baltic states from the time when she first went over in 1917, and has led a strenuous life ever since. Driven to Vladivostok when the revolution shook Russia, she was refused re-entry in 1918 when she tried to get back to do what she could toward helping the sufferers. So she went to Constantinople and greeted the refugees who fled to that strange port.

Do you discriminate at the dining table—or are you thoughtless?

In thousands of homes, a "line" is drawn at the breakfast table. Tea or coffee is served for "grown-ups" and Postum for children. But some parents do not discriminate. Caffeine and tannin, the injurious contents of coffee and tea, seriously retard the development of the delicate nerve tissues in children.

Consequently, instead of rich, satisfying Postum, children are overstimulated by the drugs in tea and coffee; and so may grow up irritable and nervous. Any doctor can tell you that this is a great evil and should be corrected.

Although some parents feel a certain justification for the personal indulgence in coffee, yet the harm to them may be equally serious. It may take a little while longer for the drugs in coffee and tea to affect an older person, but in many cases the nervous system and allied bodily functions will become weakened. The surest way to avoid such possibilities is to quit coffee entirely and drink Postum instead. The change permits you to get sound, restful sleep.

Postum is the well-known, meal-time beverage. Like thousands of others you will like it because, in flavor, it is much like a high-grade coffee.

Do away with the distiction at the table. Serve delicious Postum, piping hot, to all the family. One week's trial and it is likely that you'll never return to tea and coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

which was filling more and more densely with Russian girls. In Riga, girls and women from the ages of 19 to 39 outnumbered the men among the refugees, two and a half to one, and probably nowhere in Europe was the ratio so skewed. Driven to Vladivostok when the revolution shook Russia, she was refused re-entry in 1918 when she tried to get back to do what she could toward helping the sufferers. So she went to Constantinople and greeted the refugees who fled to that strange port.

Anyone who doubts woman's courage could learn a lot by running out to Brighton Beach some Saturday or Sunday afternoon, while the "reducing class" is holding forth. It takes courage—as well as hopes of pulchritude—to go through reducing exercises right out on the open sands, with large and interested crowds of small boys and beach loungers gazing on with rather frank verbal expression of their attention. But they go through with it—a score or more of plump women assemble at the call of the director and work as hard as ever did their proverbial ditch digger in their conscientious efforts to shed inches from their waistlines.

Greater New York's luxury bill is said to run about a hundred million dollars a month—and probably the necessities amount to something less.

Lord Napier Arlington is the center of great and almost hectic interest among more than one circle of New York society. First of all, this heart to an old and worthy title created a decided stir among the season's debutantes and their mothers when he first came over. He is one of the "catches" of London society and it decidedly NOT in need of a fortune. He just likes American girls, he says, and his own wealth makes this the only reasonable explanation of his cordial attention to us here. It was even rumored early last season that Grace Vanderbilt would do some future time preside over Chichester, the family place. Other "debs" have been mentioned since that time as the most possible sharers of the title, and then along came Tallulah Bankhead, actress and granddaughter of the late Senator from Alabama. This pretty young person with the terrible name is said to have captured Lord Arlington's affections away from them all.

There is now a definite antique center in New York Madison avenue from the lower Forties and Fifties—street, embraces it. Here one goes for all sorts of art furnishings and "period stuff." Samovars, jades and candlesticks are thick there as well as early Colonial highboys and all sorts of fascinating pieces.

PRESIDENT HARDING PRAISES WORK OF BERE A COLLEGE

President Says Good Word for Kentucky Mountain School in Letter.

Berea, Ky. — "Berea College claims to carry the opportunity of higher education to one of the finest stocks of original Americans that are to be found in this country," President Harding writes, in commending the unique work the institution is doing in placing education within reach of the 3,000,000 pioneer Americans shut away in the great Appalachian Highlands.

"It has been their misfortune," the President continues, "to live away from the great highroads of American migratory land development, and therefore to have been somewhat passed by in the march of cultural development of recent decades. We all know that they are of the finest and most patriotic elements of the Nation, and the splendid work that Berea College is doing among them is thoroughly deserving of all appreciation."

Berea College, established in the Cumberland foothills of Kentucky, at the gateway of the great Appalachian area, is elementary school, high school, college, vocational school, all in one. This unusual division of activities has grown up to meet the peculiar needs of the mountaineers in the eight Southern states from which most of Berea's students come.

Cut off from the outer world and from each other by the narrow gorges and mountain barriers of the Cumberland and Appalachian mountains, these people of purest American stock have lived since Revolutionary times an independent life, little influenced by the development of the rest of the country. Many customs of an earlier generation have thus been preserved intact, such as use of the ancient handloom, the making and singing of ballads, in some cases the idiom of Cancer and Shakespeare. But the advancement of the mining companies into this region of great mineral wealth is introducing modern conditions, and the mountaineer needs education to cope successfully with them.

Berea, with more than half a century of growth behind it, is devoting every effort to supply this education. No one is too poor or too old to be welcome at Berea, provided he or she has a will to work and a longing to learn. The Foundation School gives primary training to those who had no opportunity for even the simplest education until they were over fifteen. White-haired men and women are found in the classes, learning to read and write.

The student at Berea pays only for keep and books, and in many instances "works out" even this charge. Every student must work at least two hours a day to meet the charges of his or her education, and many work their way through entirely. The College is also sending extension workers, traveling libraries, and its book wagon back into the hills to aid those who cannot otherwise be reached.

Berea is caring for over 2,500 students each year. Dormitories are crowded, makeshift housing and classrooms have to be resorted to, and this faculty is working overtime and at the minimum of compensation. Yet hundreds are turned away because Berea cannot provide for them.

Possessing no adequate endowment, Berea must rely on individual donations. It is making its appeal for $1,000,000 to the entire country because the obligation to place the means of education within the reach of these pioneer Americans is a national one, their due by every right of blood, inheritance, and patriotic service.

President Harding's commendation is a note in a trilogy of presidential praise of this unique institution, for Theodore Roosevelt once wrote: "I do not know an institution doing a more necessary work; and former President Wilson paid this tribute: 'There is no single place where aid can do so much and so evident good.'"

MORGAN FARMERS PLAN TWO COMMUNITY FAIRS.

Plans are being made by Morgan county farmers and other interested persons who are co-operating with County Agent R. B. Rankin and the extension division of the College of Agriculture for the second Morgan County School Fair and the Grass Creek Fair to be held respectively at West Liberty, October 1 and Grass Creek, October 8. Music, lectures and exhibitions of livestock and farm products will feature the programs of the two events which have been designed for the purpose of encouraging better farming and livestock along with general improvement in the county.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A promising physician says that by far the largest number of women's ailments are not surgical ones, that in they are not caused by serious displacements, or growths. Symptoms similar in character are often brought about by much simpler conditions. We therefore urge every woman who suffers from indigestion, headaches, bearing down pains, side ache, irregularities, nervous despondency, or weakness to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It acts as a natural restorative and often prevents more serious troubles.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD GIRL HURDLED TO DEATH SAVING BROTHER.

Warren, Ohio, Sept. 27. — Mary Campbell, 5 years old, lost her life today in saving that of her younger brother. The children were playing about a bonfire when three-year-old Frank Campbell walked toward the flame. In pulling him away Mary's dress caught fire. She died several hours later.

BAD FIRE AT COLUMBIA.

Columbia, Ky., Sept. 27. — Practically the entire male population of this city turned out early today to fight a fire which destroyed three business houses, entailing a loss of $27,000, and which for a time threatened the public square.

Calls for aid brought a motor engine from Campbellsville, twenty miles away, but it arrived too late to be of assistance.

CINCINNATI-TOLEDO BARGE ROUTE PRACTICALLY DROPPED

Expense Is Too Great Says U. S. Engineers — Local River Men Prefer the Up-Stream Project.

Cincinnati, Sept. 28. — Knell of the project to connect Cincinnati with Toledo by barge route was regarded as sounded Tuesday when the United States Board of Rivers and Harbors Engineers announced temporary abandonment of plans providing for waterways between Lake Erie and the Ohio River, the absolute abandonment of the Cincinnati-Toledo route in favor of a route between Pittsburgh and Ashtabula.

Despite the announcement, however, individuals and organizations in the city which have sponsored the movement since its inception, said last night that they had not given up hope and that the fight would be carried on to victory.

According to dispatches, the reason assigned by the board for its stand was prohibitive costs of construction. It was estimated that the Cincinnati-Toledo route could not be built for less than $195,000,000 and the Pittsburgh-Ashtabula route for less than $120,000,000.

The board asserted that such expenditure was not justified and would not be justified unless an annual tonnage of 20,000,000 was guaranteed.

William C. Cullins, Executive Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, one of the organizations backing the project, said that, expert opinion notwithstanding, he was far from being convinced that the Pittsburgh route was better than the route connecting this city with Toledo.

"Regardless of the board's decision," he continued, "we believe the Cincinnati route much better than the one selected. Beyond purely local prejudice in the matter, I truthfully can say that advantages to be derived from the territory the local route would pierce would more than offset the greater constructional cost."

Albert Krell, leading member of the Waterways Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, was in Washington yesterday and could not be reached. The Waterways Committee pushed the Cincinnati route from the beginning and was instrumental in having army officers survey the proposed canal.

Other routes surveyed and examined were between Marietta and Cleveland and Portsmouth and Sandusky.

The board has invited all persons or organizations interested in its decision to submit within ninety days arguments bearing on justification of the building of the canals from an economic standpoint. It was said hearings would be granted if desired.

MOVIELAND EXPOSED IN MUSICAL SHOW

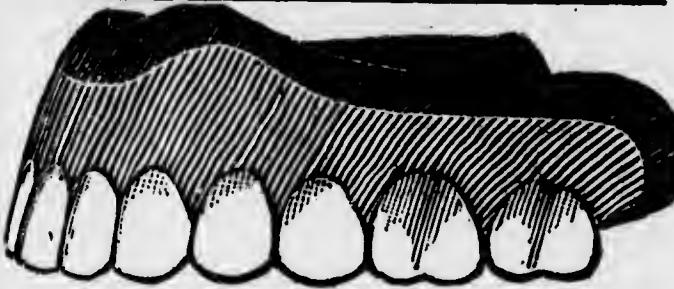

"Sun-Kist" Is Comedy Built Around the Production of a Feature Moving Picture—Interest Is Keen.

Announced for presentation at the Washington Theater for Thursday evening, September 29, will be Fanchon and Marco's sensational New York musical hit, "Sun-Kist" which comes here direct from its record breaking run at the Globe Theater in New York. "Sun-Kist" has been aptly described as an hilarious musical comedy, breezy spontaneous and "full of go." It is a product of the far Pacific Coast, and everywhere on tour was received with joyous acclaim. Two gorgeous acts and fourteen scenes are required to portray the lyrics and music which are from the pen of those two sterling artists, Fanchon and Marco, and the play is interpreted by a cast of exceptional worth that includes Dell Chain, Don Barclay, Si Layman, and Helen Kling, Hyman Meyer, Cornish Beck (the original Penrod) and the original beauty chorus of "Sun-Kist" California girls.

The story of "Sun-Kist" had to do with movieland, and in keeping with the spirit of the production it has been named "Movieland Exposed." Critics from the Pacific to the Atlantic Coast, and especially those in New York, were unusually loud in their praises of "Sun-Kist," describing it as of the real hits of the season. Its New York engagement ended, "Sun-Kist" has been booked for presentation in some of the more important cities of the east coast region, and its appearance here should easily rank as one of the stellar spots of the new theatrical season.
